A pocket knife or a shoe famine can be endured a long time. A strike in a factory is usually an incident in a contest with employers. It is not a battle begun against the people.

A nation wide strike of coal miners is different. The coal supply is limited. Shutting down of all the mines means shutting down of the factories, unemployment and suffering. Even that kind of strike, however, can be endured for a time, as demonstrated last spring in England, although English laborers have discovered that it was, for them, a grievous mistake.

But there can be no strike of railroad employes that does not fall ther green, with cruel hurt upon the people. A complete tie-up of transportation would be to paralyze all industry. It would be to drag the country suddenly back to primitive conditions, and might kill hundreds of thousands of persons in the process.

So we feel very sure in the assertion that there may be a nation-wide strike, but there will be no complete tie up in transportation. The people ne to that.

For all the railroad operatives to go in strike and the people to allow the trains to remain idle would be for them to surrender, not only the upon by cheap foreign money. railroads, but the country itself to the railroad brotherhoods.

It was understood, however, that a plan similar to that proposed by the public group in Unabligation -calling for acceptance f the los iwage cut and cancellation of the strike order by the men, with freight rates and temporarily postponing further wage cuts-would be the basis of discussion.

In connection with the possibility of this conference averting a strike it was pointed out, however, that many railroads have announced posiively that the public group proposal a impossible, in their opinion, while few labor leaders have expressed very warm approval of it.
